Introduction to Meta-Analysis and Network Meta-Analysis

Professor Toshi A. Furukawa, MD, PhD
Kyoto University School of Public Health

Date: December 5, 2018

Time: 09:00am – 12:00pm

Venue: Seminar room B, Second floor, G-building, Medical campus, Kyoto University
(Building no. 18 on the map: <http://bit.ly/1hlbR2j>)

Professor Toshi A. Furukawa is Professor of Departments of Health Promotion and Human Behavior, and of Clinical Epidemiology at Kyoto University Graduate School of Medicine / School of Public Health, since 2010. Prof Furukawa's major areas of interest and expertise include clinical epidemiology, evidence synthesis, and clinical psycho-pharmacology and cognitive-behavior therapy. He is author and co-author of over 350 peer-reviewed articles, including:

- Cipriani A*, Furukawa TA*, Salanti G*, et al (2018) Comparative efficacy and acceptability of 21 antidepressant drugs for the acute treatment of adults with major depressive disorder: a systematic review and network meta-analysis. Lancet, 391, 1357-1366. (*: co-first authors)
- Nikolakopoulou A, Mavridis D, Furukawa TA, et al (2018) Living network meta-analysis compared with pairwise meta-analysis in comparative effectiveness research: empirical study. BMJ, 360, k585.
- Furukawa TA, Efthimiou O, Weitz ES, et al (2018) Cognitive-Behavioral Analysis System of Psychotherapy, drug, or their combination for persistent depressive disorder: Personalizing the treatment choice using individual participant data network metaregression. Psychotherapy and Psychosomatics, 87, 140-153.
- Pompoli A, Furukawa TA†, Efthimiou O et al (2018) Dismantling cognitive-behaviour therapy for panic disorder: a systematic review and component network meta-analysis. Psychological Medicine, 48, 1945-1953. (†: corresponding author)

After this three-hour workshop, the participants will be able to:

1. Understand the basic principles of meta-analysis
2. Understand the basic principles of network meta-analysis
3. Understand how to frame the research question in network meta-analysis

Improving People's Lives with Innovation and Technology

Mr. Toshi Nakamura
Co-Founder & CEO, Kopernik

Date: December 5, 2018

Time: 13:00pm – 14:30pm

Venue: Seminar room A, Second floor, G-building, Medical campus, Kyoto University
(Building no. 18 on the map: <http://bit.ly/1h1bR2j>)

Toshi Nakamura is co-founder and CEO of Kopernik, an Indonesia-based organization that finds what works to reduce poverty. Toshi, together with Ewa, co-founded Kopernik in 2010 with a vision to make international development more effective. Before starting Kopernik, Toshi dealt with governance reform, peace building processes, monitoring and evaluation, and post-disaster reconstruction at the United Nations (UN) in Timor-Leste, Indonesia, Sierra Leone, the United States and Switzerland. Prior to joining the UN, Toshi was a management consultant for McKinsey and Company in Tokyo. He is a graduate of Kyoto University' Law Faculty, holds MSc Comparative Politics from the London School of Economics and Political Science, and is a Guest Professor at Osaka University's Center for the Study of Co*Design. Toshi was selected as a World Economic Forum (WEF) Young Global Leader in 2012, and was a member of the WEF Global Agenda Council on Sustainable Development 2014-2016.

After this 1.5 hour session, the participants will be able to:

1. Understand key challenges that people face in developing countries
2. Understand some examples of simple and innovative solutions to tackle those challenges

Mentorship: How to give it, how to get it, and why it matters

Improve your mentoring skills to increase career success and satisfaction

Prof. Mitchell D. Feldman, MD, MPhil, FACP
University of California, San Francisco

Date: December 5, 2018

Time: 15:00pm – 17:00pm

Venue: Seminar room A, Second floor, G-building, Medical campus, Kyoto University
(Building no. 18 on the map: <http://bit.ly/1h1bR2j>)

Dr. Feldman is Professor of Medicine, Chief of the Division of General Internal Medicine and the Associate Vice Provost and Director of the Clinical Translational Science Mentor Training Program at the University of California, San Francisco. He trained in medical anthropology at Johns Hopkins University and at Cambridge University and in Internal Medicine at UCSF. He has been a visiting professor and has lectured widely on mentoring at major universities across the US and in Japan and China. His research and others have shown that mentoring is key to a more productive and successful career in research, teaching and clinical care. In this workshop, Dr. Feldman will discuss what are the key competencies of outstanding mentorship that support career success and satisfaction. Participants will use case studies to learn the fundamentals of how to find and work more effectively with a mentor; how to promote alignment in mentoring; and how to respond to mentoring challenges.

At the end of this workshop, participants will learn the fundamental skills of outstanding mentors and mentees and how to apply them to their mentoring relationships. They will find that improving your mentoring skills, as a mentee and/or as a mentor, is both fun and rewarding.

Improving your presentation skills – how to tell stories that stick

Professor Ian Roberts, MB BCH FRCP FPH
London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine

Date: December 6, 2018

Morning session: 09:00am - 12.00pm (limit to 8 participants)

Venue for morning session: Large Seminar Room, First floor, Science Frontier Building, Medical campus, Kyoto University (Building no. 16 on the map: <http://bit.ly/1hIbR2j>)

Afternoon session: 14:00pm – 17:00pm (limit to 8 participants)

Venue for afternoon session: Seminar room A, Second floor, G-building, Medical campus, Kyoto University (Building no. 18 on the map: <http://bit.ly/1hIbR2j>)

Both sessions are identical, register for one session only!

Ian Roberts is Professor of Epidemiology at the London School of Hygiene & Tropical Medicine. He trained as a paediatrician in the UK and then in epidemiology at the University of Auckland, New Zealand and McGill University, Canada. He is a clinical academic who works collaboratively with health professionals world-wide to conduct large multi-centre clinical trials aimed at improving patient outcomes in life threatening emergencies. He works with others to build global research partnerships to answer questions together that could not be answered by anyone working alone. He has played lead roles in several large trials including the CRASH trials and the Woman trial. As a researcher and teacher he has a long standing interest in improving his and other's presentation skills which he believes should be a core competence of any researcher.

At the end of this workshop participants will have the potential to make their presentations more interesting, engaging and memorable.

How to Write a Good Research Paper and Get Published

Tips from an Editor in Chief

Prof. Mitchell D. Feldman, MD, MPhil, FACP
University of California, San Francisco

Date: December 6, 2018

Time: 15:00pm – 17:00pm

Venue: Seminar room 335, Third floor, G-building, Medical campus, Kyoto University
(Building no. 18 on the map: <http://bit.ly/1h1bR2j>)

Dr. Feldman is Professor of Medicine, Chief of the Division of General Internal Medicine and the Associate Vice Provost at the University of California, San Francisco. He trained in medical anthropology at Johns Hopkins University and at Cambridge University and in Internal Medicine at the University of California, San Francisco. He is the immediate past Editor in Chief of the Journal of General Internal Medicine (JGIM), the #1 general medicine journal according to Google Scholar. Dr. Feldman has authored more than 100 research papers, numerous book chapters and is editor of a widely used text. In this interactive session, participants will have the opportunity to learn the essential components of a good research paper from the perspective of an editor in chief and learn how reviewers and editors assess the quality and importance of their work. Dr. Feldman will offer tips on how to construct and improve your research paper, how to choose a journal, and the common problems with papers that lead to rejection.

At the end of this workshop, participants will learn tips on how to write a successful research paper and get it published. They will have the opportunity to review abstracts from real papers submitted to JGIM and learn why some were successful and others rejected.
